maker and jeweler of this town, recently left Norway for a Newburyport, Mass.

The chimney in the house of W. W.
Twombly on Deering Street burned out Monday evening during the high wind and storm. It got so hot inside as to set fire to the wood-work between the floors. Timely discovery undoubtedly saved a big fire.

NUMBER 8.

We Admit Our Sins Are Many.

In another column is the official issued by the Honorable Board of Commissioners notifying the municipal officers of the several towns and plantations of the Commissioners' intentions to erect new County Buildings.

This document cannot fail to read with interest by all voters in the county as it plainly shows the intentions of the County Commissioners.

We wonder why our esteemed contemporary has not published it?
That good and unselfish paper occasionally comes to the aid of being extremely partisan in this campaign.

The omission of the publication of this order, coming from the source it does, might lead one to feel that they were a bit of a "cover-up."

We trust that the non-appearance of this order in the Democrat was an accidental oversight.

VOLUME XXIV.

Supreme Judicial Court.
February Term, 1893.

The first jury trial commenced Thursday afternoon. Frederick M. Bartlett vs.
Lydia C. Powers. Parties reside at Bryan's Pond. Plaintiff is a merchant, and the defendant is a farmer. The case is about the store furnished the Powers family. Plaintiff asserts that having trusted the husband of the defendant as long as he would, he made arrangement with Mrs. Powers that she, who owned the household, should be responsible for the account, and that thereafter, with her consent, the account was kept in her name. Defendant denies ever knowing of the account, and claims that she and her husband, and not she, is responsible. Wright for plaintiff, Sweeney for defendant. The jury dis-creed.
